

TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

Vietnam Center and Archive

The Vietnam Center and Archive at Texas Tech University is the country's largest center and archive devoted to the collection, preservation, and dissemination of the history of the Vietnam War. With nearly 30 million documents, hundreds of thousands of photographs, slides, manuscript collections, audio and video recordings, memorabilia of the war, etc., the VNCA is the nation's preeminent place for Vietnam War studies. Founded by Vietnam veterans in 1989, the VNCA is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, as well as an academic unit of Texas Tech University. We are currently collecting Vietnam War-related materials, including oral history interviews with participants of the war. Our Oral History Project is headed by Dr. Kelly E. Crager, a military historian who specializes in interviewing Vietnam veterans.

To learn more about the VNCA, we encourage you to visit our homepage: www.vietnam.ttu.edu. From this site you can access over 8 million documents in our collection, as well as the photographs, 1,400 oral history interviews, etc., in addition to learning more about our conferences, educational initiatives, building campaign, and other activities.
